

Donor Advised Funds and Gifts of Stock

A donor advised fund (DAF) or gift of stock might be a great solution for you. You can use a DAF to distribute gifts to numerous charities, such as The Food Depot. With a DAF, you can make gifts to The Food Depot during your lifetime, and when you pass away, your children can carry on your legacy of giving. Gifts of stock are a donation of shares of stock to The Food Depot. Both methods of giving are advantageous for both the donor and The Food Depot.

Donor Advised Funds

Donor-Advised Funds (DAFs) are charitable giving vehicles administered by charitable organizations, such as The Food Depot, that allow donors to make a charitable contribution, receive an immediate tax deduction, and then recommend grants from the fund over time. Below is more details and advantages for donations of DAFs:

- Establishment: A donor establishes a DAF account at a sponsoring organization, which is usually a public charity, such as a community foundation or a national charity like Fidelity Charitable, Schwab Charitable, or Vanguard Charitable.
- Contributions: The donor makes an irrevocable contribution of personal assets (such as cash, stocks, or other securities) to the DAF. These contributions are tax-deductible in the year they are made.
- Investment: The funds in the DAF can be invested in various investment options provided by the sponsoring organization. Any investment growth is tax-free, which can potentially increase the amount available for charity.
- Grant Recommendations: The donor, or their appointed advisor, can recommend grants to qualified public charities over time. While the donor can suggest how and when the money is distributed, the sponsoring organization must approve these recommendations to ensure they comply with IRS regulations.

- Tax Advantages: Contributions to a DAF offer immediate tax benefits. Donors can deduct up to 60% of their adjusted gross income (AGI) for cash contributions and up to 30% of AGI for appreciated securities. Additionally, appreciated assets contributed to a DAF are not subject to capital gains tax.
- Flexibility: DAFs provide flexibility in giving. Donors can make a charitable contribution in a high-income year and distribute funds to charities over several years. This allows for strategic philanthropy and potentially greater impact.
- Legacy Planning: Donors can name successors or beneficiaries to their DAFs, enabling them to create a legacy of giving that can continue beyond their lifetime.

How a donor advised fund works:

1. You make an initial, irrevocable gift of cash or stock to fund a DAF at a sponsoring organization,
2. The assets in your DAF grow tax-free,
3. You make annual recommendations on gifts to be made from your DAF,
4. Consult your professional representative for more details.

Donor advised funds offer a tax-efficient way to manage charitable giving, allowing donors to take immediate tax deductions and then distribute funds to charities over time as they see fit. Please speak with your professional representative to see what the best use of your DAFs are for you.

Gifts of Stock

Gifts of stock refer to the donation of shares of stock to a charitable organization. This method of giving can be advantageous for both the donor and the charity. Below are more details and advantages for gifts of stock:

- Avoid Capital Gains Tax: When a donor gives appreciated stock that they've held for more than one year, they can avoid paying capital gains tax on the appreciation. This is a significant tax advantage compared to selling the stock and donating the proceeds.
- Fair Market Value Deduction: The donor can generally deduct the fair market value of the stock on the date of the gift. This deduction can be up to 30% of the donor's adjusted gross income (AGI) for the year.
- Maximize Donation: By donating stock directly, the donor can potentially give more to the charity than if they had sold the stock, paid capital gains tax, and then donated the proceeds.

Benefits for The Food Depot

- Receives Full Value: The charity receives the full market value of the stock and can sell it tax-free, as charitable organizations are not subject to capital gains tax.
- Potential for Increased Donations: Stock donations can be larger than cash donations since donors are often willing to give more when they receive tax advantages.

Example Scenario

Cookie Monster purchased shares of stock for $5,000 several years ago, and those shares are now worth $20,000. If Cookie Monster were to sell the shares, they would incur capital gains tax on the $15,000 appreciation. Instead, by donating the stock directly to The Food Depot, the Cookie Monster can avoid the capital gains tax and potentially receive a charitable deduction for the full $20,000 market value.

How Gifts of Stock Work

- Selection of Stock: The donor selects publicly traded stock from their portfolio that they wish to donate.
- Transfer Process: The donor initiates a transfer of the chosen stock to the charity. This usually involves notifying the brokerage firm to transfer the shares directly to the charity's brokerage account.
- Charity Receives Stock: The charity receives the stock and can choose to hold it or sell it immediately.
- Acknowledgment and Tax Receipt: The charity provides the donor with an acknowledgment of the donation, which includes the date of transfer and details of the stock gifted.

Steps to Donate Stock

1. Initiate Transfer: Contact your broker or financial advisor to initiate the transfer of the shares to The Food Depot's brokerage account (instructions below).
2. Document the Donation: Ensure that you document the transfer date and the fair market value of the stock on that date for tax purposes.

Gifts of stock are a tax-efficient way to support The Food Depot, offering substantial benefits to both you and the organization.
